WOOD IS EXONERATED

President Praises Soldiers Concerned in Affair at Dajo Mountain.

FANATICS DETERMINED TO DIE

Women Dressed and Armed as Men, Wore Wood, and Children Used as Shields by Frenzied Mob—Impossible to Distinguish Between Them.

Washington, March 15.—A cablegram from Gen. Wood regarding criticism of the recent battle of Mount Dajo on the island of Jolo, together with correspondence between the president and Secretary Taft on the subject, have been made public.

Gen. Wood's cablegram was in answer to the one sent to him at the direction of Secretary Taft, who called attention to the criticism of "wanton slaughter of Moros," and asked him to send all the particulars. Gen. Wood's reply states that there was no wanton killing, and says a considerable number of women and children were killed in the fight because they were actually in the works when assaulted, that Moro women wore trousers and that children were used as shields.

The reply was sent by Secretary Taft to the president with a note in which the secretary says that Gen. Wood's answer seems to him to show most clearly that the unfortunate loss of life was wholly unavoidable, to which the president replied that Gen. Wood's answer "is, of course, entirely satisfactory."

Wood Cables Explanation
Gen. Wood's cablegram is as follows: "I was present throughout practically the entire action and inspected top of crest after action was finished. Am convinced no man, woman or child was wantonly killed. A considerable number of women and children were killed in the fight because they were actually in the works when assaulted, and were undoubtedly killed in the force hand to hand fighting which took place in the narrow inclosed spaces. Moro women wore trousers and they were armed much like the men, and charged with them. The children were in many cases used by the men as shields while charging troops."

These incidents are much to be regretted but it must be understood that the Moros one and all were fighting not only as enemies but as religious fanatics, believing Paradise to be their immediate reward if killed in action with Christians. They apparently desired that none be spared. Some of our men, once a hospital steward, were cut up while giving assistance to wounded Moros by the wounded, and by those fighting death for the purpose of getting this vengeance. I personally ordered assistance given wounded Moros and that food and water should be sent them and medical attendance. In addition friendly Moros were at once directed to proceed to mountain for this purpose.

President Says "Well Done."
I do not believe that in this or in any other fight any American soldier wantonly killed a Moro woman or child, or that he ever did it except unavoidable in close action. Action was most desperate and was impossible for men fighting literally for their lives in close quarters to distinguish who would be injured by fire. In all actions against Moros, we have been given Moros again and again to fight as men and keep women and children out of it. I assume entire responsibility for action of the troops in every particular and if any evidence develops in any way bearing out the charges will be made.

New York, March 15.—The report of an alleged plot to kill Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst is made public. Dr. Parkhurst has been prominent for years as a police reformer. According to report, a man has been hired to club Dr. Parkhurst at the first opportunity. Dr. Parkhurst refused to either confirm or deny the report.

Order Cars to Be Distributed to All

Altoona.
The Baltimore & Ohio railroad has issued an order in the Fairmont coal region that all shippers of coal are to be treated alike in the matter of car distribution. The charges made against them of unfair discrimination before the Interstate Commerce Commission by Governor Dawson of West Virginia and others has evidently resulted in a victory for the shippers.

The new instructions are that cars are to be distributed to all mines alike, instead of allowing certain coal companies with which the railroads have deals to have more cars than less favored competitors.

INTEREST ON MUNICIPAL FUNDS.

The neighboring borough of Washington, Pennsylvania, gets four per cent. interest on its daily balances in the bank designated as the borough depository. Connellsville is a four per cent. town so far as time deposits in its banks are concerned. Our school board is at this moment receiving four per cent. interest on the proceeds of its latest bond sale remaining unbacked upon in a local bank. These facts suggest the query, Why should not all our public monies on deposit in the banks draw interest just the same as those of private individuals?

Treasurer Rutter is the custodian of the borough funds and Treasurer Schenk of the school funds. Technically and lawfully they have the right to keep these funds in whatever bank they elect, being personally responsible for the safety of the same; but they can without doubt get interest on the public monies in their hands from the depositories they have selected, and any such revenues should go to the public treasury, since these officials receive from the borough and the school district proper and satisfactory compensation for their services.

Washington borough invited bids from its banking institutions and awarded the custody of the funds to the highest bidder. Other boroughs go further by dispensing with the services of individuals as treasurers and electing banking institutions to that office under an agreement that they serve without compensation. Without a good and sufficient bond, however, the wisdom and the legality of this is doubtful.

We commend these suggestions to the consideration of our municipal authorities.

THE DUNBAR ROBBERS.

It transpires that Dunbar was the victim of an organized band of robbers who plundered systematically, taking wholesale for the purpose of selling at retail. It was a lucrative business, while it lasted. The company could safely undersell the market without any danger of selling below cost. Its business was practically all profit.

This company, it develops, was composed of foreigners, principally Slovaks. We are accustomed to speak of this particular portion of our population as "ignorant foreigners," but we must admit that in some respects at least they are quite as intelligent as the average American in their lines of learning. The Dunbar discovery proves that in the business of burglary they are a distinct improvement over the Cooley gang. The latter were native Americans. They knew how to steal, and to elude for a long time the slow-moving steps of justice, but they never attempted to put their plunder on the market in a regular commercial way like the Dunbar looters did.

The thriving business of the Slovaks Stealing Company was made possible by the utter absence of police protection. It is now proposed to build an $5,500 borough building in Dunbar. With the respect to the public safety, which prompts this improvement, we would suggest that the citizens stand more in need of protection in their persons and property than they do of a handsome city hall.

Monuments are for the dead, and are highly proper, but only after the necessities of the living are provided.

THE SQUARE DEAL.

The Connellsville facility illustrates the dangers to the traveling public of a double-track railway system unprovided with overhead or underground means of communication between either side of the tracks.

Such safeguards are common and are necessary at points where passenger traffic is heavy. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company is remiss in its duty in this respect so far as the Pittsburgh and the Connellsville divisions are concerned. We do not recall a single safety way of this kind between Pittsburgh and Cumberland, certainly not at any important passenger point.

Improvements of this character are common to the B. & O. and the Pennsylvania systems on their eastern divisions and main lines, as are many others that have not been extended westward, yet the lines of both companies in this section are among the most highly profitable they have.

It looks as if we were not getting what President Roosevelt terms The Square Deal.

THE NEW LAWS.

A township official called at this office and asked for a copy of the new road law. He was evidently under the impression that the publication of the laws was a part of the business of the press. The press is willing to make it a part of its business, but there has been a disposition on the part of legislators to conceal as far as possible the nature of the laws they enact.

Whether this is due to the fact that there are too many "snakes" in the legislation, or whether the statements are afraid they might not get their "share" of graft from an appropriation for the payment of the cost of advertising, does not appear, but certain it is, that propositions hitherto advanced for the publication in the new-papers of the session laws at even nominal rates have been coldly, disdainfully, positively and almost unanimously rejected.

The policy of the Pennsylvania law makers has always been, Millions for the Passage of Laws but not One Cent for their Publication.

PUNCTUATION.

It is a prevailing fad of job printers to omit punctuation. The consequences are sometimes far from satisfactory to the customer, as witnesses the following street car sign of a well-known Connellsville druggist:

Your Doctor's Orders
Are Observed Strictly and Accurately
7 Seven Six Six Six

Pure Drugs and Medicines
What the druggist does on and what he wanted to say, was that he fills prescriptions accurately; that he never substitutes other remedies for those called for in the prescription; and, finally, that he sells nothing but pure drugs and medicines.

The job printer has made him say that he obeys the doctor's orders by never substituting pure drugs and medicines for the impure kind prescribed.

The coal strike clouds loom large and threatening, but it's an ill storm that blows no good. A coal strike would mean an increased coke trade.

A proposition for another street car line was declined by the Uniontown fire department. Its action receives the cordial commendation of the Genius and the Standard, the former saying that the boys extinguished what threatened to be a great conflagration. Street carnivals have degenerated until they have ceased to be an attraction to the public.

Confidence and Laurel Run seem to be hoodoo points on the B. & O.

Teachers' examinations are now held by committees. Things have changed since the good, old times when the County Superintendent examined all the teachers. Whether the change is for better or for worse is a debatable question, but there is no doubt that the new plan takes a large burden of work from the shoulders of the County Superintendent.

The centennial is discovering as well as making history.

The B. & O. has posted notices in the Fairmount region that its car supply will be distributed equitably among the coal and coke operators hereafter.

We haven't heard of any such notices in the Connellsville region; but, on the other hand, if there are any complaints on the part of the shippers, they are not loud enough to be heard.

The Good Roads movement is stuck fast in the mud.

Uniontown objects to a distillery in the center of the town. The people there evidently want to take their on the side.

The suggestion of The Courier, that tramps and others who are entangled at the borough's expense be compelled to work out their dues in the street cleaning gang, has been promptly adopted by Burgess Sisson. We congratulate the bourgeois on this evidence of his desire to make his administration clean and economical.

The foreign population and their gangs are frequent visitors to the bar of justice.

Company C made good at its recent inspection and has for the time being escaped the threat of disbandment. Colonel Harcourt intimated that the boys were all right, but that the officers of the town didn't take enough interest in the company. Not every town can have a military company, and it ought to be a matter of civic pride on the part of the citizens of the town fortunate enough to have such organizations to encourage and help maintain them, and it ought to be a matter of personal pride with the members of such company to maintain their organizations at the highest point of efficiency. Military discipline does much to improve young men, physically and morally, and to equip them better for the battles of life.

The Washington Record wants Congressman Acheson to take the Supreme Court's case.

The Washington County Democrats have a soulful yearning to clinch Acheson from local politics. The reason is obvious.

The Scotland Independent demands police reform. It wants a larger force to thoroughly patrol the town, and to be uniformed and to prevent the people from splitting "obscene jokes on the sidewalks."

The police reform fever seems to be catching.

The Uniontown Standard speaks an encouraging word for the Chautauque free bridge at Point Marion.

What about the Connellsville free bridge?

The Uniontown Genius is in favor buying the Pennsylvania bridge and making it free for Connellsville, New Haven and the adjacent countryside provided it does not cost the county too much.

When Uniontown wanted a new court house, The Courier says, the movement for support of the new court house had cost many times the sum required to buy the Younglough bridge at Connellsville. O, the balance of black indignation!

Should Not Exclude This Paper. Uniontown Genius thinks all the county papers should be kept in the court house. We could then easily sympathize with the county papers who were with filing which they are not. The committees have the right to draw wages, some of them, but their wise discretion should never exclude such papers at The Courier.

MISS CROSMAN'S HIT

In As You Like It Pleased
Big Colonial Audience.

A REVIEW OF THE COMEDY.

Star's Subtle Art in Every Line of Her Acting—Had a Strong Supporting Company—Rebuke to Gallery Gods.

The pleasure that can be derived from a combination which includes a pretty theatre, a house full of people to gallery, a play that is a clear mirror of the clean and noble instincts of human nature and players to interpret it as no less a master than the Bard of Stratford himself would have been delighted to see it made manifest in all its subtle parts was the same pleasure which theatregoers enjoyed at the Colonial last night, when Henrietta Crosmann and her company, under the direction of Maurice Campbell, offered "As You Like It." It was an expectant audience, probably nine tenths of whom had never before seen and heard the gifted star whose fame is not only the triumph of her art, but that triumph won against the odds of a grinding theatrical trust, which drew the shutters down over her talent for many years because she dared to strive alone. All the world loves a winner, and it is a safe guess that many a genuine hand-club given Miss Crosmann has in it, as well as the endorsement of her ability, a tiny echo of satisfaction for her victory achieved before the mouths of the enemy's cannon. That this appreciation was shared by the best society of surrounding towns, despite the deep frowns of the weather gods, is one of the hopeful signs that hangs by the door of Connellsville's temple of Hecate. And in proportion as the worthy offerings of legitimate actors and actresses win their audiences in Connellsville, by just that same proportion will the admirable passions of mankind continue to grow in favor on the local boards, and the bare and stupid go back into the shadows, where they belong.

Miss Crosmann has had two notable successes, "Mistress Nell," in which her portrayal of the winsome Nell Gwynn made her famous in an independent New York theatre, and "As You Like It," which has spread her fame in all the playhouses of the land. The characters are different only in their creators made them so; for Miss Crosmann's art is as all real art is, the gift of individuality. She stamped the character of Nell Gwynn with a living personality, and she gives Shakespear's daughter a new lease of life. It is a life brushed with youth, and beauty, and brave resolve, so delicately veneered with the spirit of mischief and the whims of love that while the play is truly a comedy, it is a magic lesson of life on its broadest lines. What could better illumine this undertone of the drama than in those varying scenes where Rosalind wears the doublet and the hose of the man, and withal outdresses the very deception of her dress with the bursting heart of a woman? The first impression that Miss Crosmann conveys is this; but the discerning soon sees, as a sun breaking through the light silver mist of a May morning, that not alone is the love-sick girl shinning through the accoutrements of an adventurous young man, but that this is merely a wave of light, bearing with it the sacred task of a woman's heart, alive in every glance, every sigh, every word and lift of hand, to complete the business of her very existence. That which is no art so convincing as that which wraps the golden seeds of a great purpose in the gossamer chrysalis of a butterfly. For the soul large enough to guess the worth of the seed and its cause, however it be hidden away, there is no need to hold the light to the gossamer film; but for all the world at large, Miss Crosmann does light the candle, and the vision is clear and strong.

Because of this double view of life, comedy is always more difficult to interpret intelligently than tragedy, for calamity howls its own lesson, while comedy cries out her distress under the veil of laughter. Tears are direct speech; but humour is only the shadow of speech, making voice of a smile. And to smile so that pity rushes forward to transform the meaning of a smile and to convert it into tragedy, is one of the triumphs of the stage. Has Miss Crosmann not done it well in that scene where she receives the bloody torch? To swoon away would be to confess that she is not a woman; to confess that she is not a woman would be to deny, even if it be only to her own heart, that she does not love Orlando. And how subtle is Shakespeare in this, that though she had denied many times her womanhood in all the lighter follies of her adventure, yet when the real test of her heart comes in a big thing, she can be no more than woman after all. That Miss Crosmann's mixture of dread that was real and denial that was false still left the true feeling in her heart dominant, is the invaluable element in her work. It gives us Shakespeare, and what artist could hope to win a higher word of praise?

Besides the star, there are three fine figures in her support. Edward Mackay is one of them. It would be difficult to pick out a man on the stage who has so keen an insight into the beauties of blank verse as has he. His every syllable gives the lie to a common theory that verse cannot fit the ear today. He is manly, he is gentle, he is quiet and reposeful, qualities that make the ideal conception of Orlando. Miss Helen Winter as Celia was so sweet, so sympathetic and so quick to match every passion of her adopted sister that no matter in what role she ever appears in Connellsville, she shall be given all due interest and attention. The third notable success in the support, William F. Owen in the disguise of the fool. To be an acceptable Touchstone is to be an actor. Mr. Owen is both in one.

If the gallery did not learn a lesson last night, it is a hopeless crowd that sits that section of the Colonial Theatre. Long are the closing scene of the last act, as usual the gods began to rush down the stairs. Miss Crosmann simply said to Jacques, who was speaking his lines: "Wait, do not speak a word." The audience in the pit caught the words, and burst into applause, which was a rebuke merited for many such interruptions recently. If the galleries do not know when a play is about to end, these mistaken heads should take their cue from others who know a little more about clemaxes than they do.

Countess Schlof visited M. Witte and presented him with a petition for the release of a number of high born political prisoners. Witte received her cordially but directed her to apply to M. Durnovo for aid in releasing Russia-absolutely. If Durnovo wished to hang me the Czar would certainly order my execution.

"Have you heard what's new in town?" asked Cummings presently.

"No," said Tom truthfully, for he had never heard what was new, but not heard it.

"Old Carew's brought his daughter home. Fanchon Carew was with her at St. Mary's nunn last year, and Fanchon says she's not only a great beauty, but a great dear."

"Ah!" rejoined the other with masterful indifference. "Date say—date say—date say—you're not interested." said Cummings cheerfully, returning the discussion of his boss.

"The old fellow will take precious good care you don't come near her."

In regard to the extraordinary agility which the pursuing gentleman was pable, it is enough to say that he caught the cat. He emerged from the bushes holding it in one hand, his gloves d white bat in the other, and presented himself before Miss Betty with a feather-hen's not entirely attributable to his exertions.

For a moment, as she came running toward him and he met her flashing look, bright with laughter and recognition and haste, he stammered. A thrill

He made a bow which just missed being too low, but did miss it. "It is there already," he said, losing his courage after the bow, made his speech with so palpable a gasp before the last word that the dullest person in the world could have seen that it meant it.

Miss Betty disappeared.

He went out a great deal, though he was not a sportsman, for he was known to Mr. Carraway as a person who presented his daughter to a new maid he presented her to, Fanchon Barland, undoubtedly, made one hurried and embarrassed call, evading Miss Betty's reference to the chivalry of the kitchen with a few words, too humble to be thought of as contemptible and too unbecomingly candid to return her friend's visit until after her debut, and Mr. Carraway explained that there were always some interesting young men hanging about the barland's, where, he did not add, they interfered with a worthy old one who was a friend of his, or sister.

Percival Burd and Rachael Capital Were Quarrelling on the Street.

FINED $5 BY THE BURGESS.

Percival's Friends Pay Her Way Out and a Collection Was Taken Up For Rachael—Other Prisoners Before the Bar Today.

Percival Burd of New Haven and Rachael Capital of Lemont, two colored damsels who have heretofore been friends, got into an altercation in front of Stader's morgue yesterday afternoon and Officers Rottler and DeTemple arrested them on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. A scene ensued when Officer DeTemple was conducting Percival to the lockup. She gave him a good bit of "sass," but as DeTemple says, he landed her. Last night in police court the two women stormed around blaming each other for their arrest. Percival said that Rachael owed her a dollar which Rachael did not deny, but said that she hadn't the money to pay the bill. Rachael had a half pint hidden in her clothes when she was arrested, but said that she wasn't drunk. Burgess Solson dismissed the case by fining both of the colored women $5.00. Rachael's friends took up a collection and had her released, while a friend of Percival's planked down five dollars and the couple went away together.

Robert White, a "regular" at the station, was sentenced to 48 hours in the lockup for being drunk and disorderly in the Marietta bar and was fined $3.50. Before he was arrested a friend took $100 from his person and deposited it in the hotel safe. He went there this morning in company with an officer and paid the fine out of his roll.

Frank Berg of Keifertown, a pelegged cripple, said that he had gotten out of the hospital only a few days ago. Some one gave him a drink yesterday and he went "crazy." Officer DeTemple testified that he was boisterous and had insulted several persons on the streets. He was told to stay but would not do so. Burgess Solson gave him five days to get over his crazy spell.

Barry Brown, better known as "Snake," who assists in cleaning spittoons and blacking boots about the police station, was on the wrong side of the rail this morning. He came into the dock with a confident air that he would be turned out. He had a good skate on yesterday afternoon and tried to tear Officer McCadden's coat off when arrested. "Forty-eight hours for you Snake," said the Burgess. "Gee," said Brown.

H. Brown of South Connelville "died" on his way home last evening and had to be brought to the police station on a stretcher. He was asleep on the steps of a residence near the Colonial theatre. He was given 48 hours.

John Edwards, employed as a hostler by Rockwell Marietta, seemed to think that he would get off without any trouble, but he was told by Burgess Solson that he could get out of serving 48 hours if Mr. Marietta would put up the $3.50. According to Officer DeTemple Edwards is taking the Kelsey cure.

COAL WASHER IN OPERATION.

Southern Connelville Company Completes Improvement.

The big coal washer at the plant of the Southern Connelville Coal & Coke Company at Gray's Landing on the Monongahela river has been completed and was put in operation Monday. It has a capacity of 1,500 tons per day. It is 100 feet or more in height and is mostly of brick construction.

The test of the washer made on Monday was very satisfactory and the machinery runs very smoothly, steam power being used. The company will wash only for part of the ovens at first, but inside of two weeks they expect to be washing the coal to supply all of their 240 ovens which are now in operation. The Roberts & Shaffer Company of Chicago built the washer. Harry Whyel, an old Frick man, is manager of the Southern Coal & Coke Company.

SMITHFIELD.

Chatty Letter from the Metropolis of Georgia Township.

Smithfield, March 15.—Born to Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Butler, Wednesday, March 14, a boy.

Earnest Young of Point Marion was here yesterday making a tap to put gas in Mrs. Morgan Downey's new residence on Morgantown street.

The trustees of Gallatin Lodge No. 517, I. O. O. F., made the last payment and cancelled an interest bearing mortgage yesterday that they have been burdened with for several years and now have a valuable property clear of all incumbrances.

D. A. Griffith and Harry Austin of Uniontown and J. W. Ribber of Pittsburgh were registered at Black's Hotel yesterday.

Jesse M. Stewart of near Ruble was transacting some business in town yesterday pertaining to his insurance on his store recently consumed by fire near Outerson. His books were burned in the fire with accounts in them amounting to $1,800.

I. G. Burchinal of the Acme Publication Company, Morgantown, was transacting business in the borough yesterday.

The snow ball nuisance has again reached the limit in this town. Boys, some of them young men, who ought to be doing something to earn a living, congregate on the corners and in front of the postoffice at the hours that the school children are returning to their homes from school, and pelt them with snow balls. We saw a girl struck in the eye with a snow ball that made her cry out with pain. The owners of properties where they congregate could break up this practice, but as they don't, the borough authorities should take measures to suppress it.

Dr. C. W. Richards of Bruceton, W. Va., is a business visitor here today.

Mrs. S. A. Johnson has bought from the Diavo estate in Pittsburgh a building lot, considerable of $2,000. The purchase was made for her daughter, Mrs. McGrew, who will build an apartment house on it.

Vanderbilt has lost its opportunity to get a good policeman by not closing a bargain with Joseph Kibe, who has secured employment in Uniontown at a better job.

Rev. F. R. Peters closed his protracted meeting here last Wednesday night with several accessions to the church. A score or more of Italian employed in the E. & O. yards were up to the bank this morning getting their checks cashed.

The roads are about the worst ever. The rain following the snow yesterday and last night makes them a perfect slush. Uncle Sam's rural carriers are having their salaries this winter.

The snow and sleet put some of the Tri-State lines down in the borough.

WORK ON STREETS.

Burgess Solson Orders Prisoners to Earn Their Board.

It will not be so pleasant for the prisoners at the lockup hereafter, who have been repeatedly arrested for drunkenness and who are in the habit of serving 48 hours in preference to paying a fine of $3.50. Burgess A. D. Solson this morning announced that all prisoners in the lockup who still had time to serve and those who did not pay their fines this morning should be placed at work upon the streets.

Joseph Halfhill, who cleans the streets, will be given an officer to see that none of them get away while the work is in progress. This morning there were eight prisoners in the cells and Officer John DeTemple was told to take charge of the squad and thoroughly clean the cells and all parts of the borough building. When he gets through with them they are to be turned over to Halfhill to clean the streets and shovel the snow from the ditches.

Burgess Solson instructed the officers to cooperate with Mr. Halfhill and see that the men did their work properly and to return the prisoners to the lockup this evening and he would hear reports of their work. The Burgess proposes to reduce the time of the prisoners several hours per day for this work.

During the past week he has had many prisoners before him who could pay their fines, but chose to stay 48 hours in the lockup in preference to doing so. In that length of time they usually slept off a good sized fog, but he proposes to hereafter make their work it off. He believes that this will not only be profitable to the town, but will reduce materially the arrests for drunkenness and disorderly conduct upon the streets.

A NEW PLANT.

Seventeen Ovens Have Been Fired at Fayette.

Leckrone with 22 ovens is owned by the same firm, the South Fayette Coke Company, of which James W. Abraham is president and Col. Everhart Bierer is vice president and manager.

Rules That Must Be Observed—Names of Committees in the Various Districts and Places Where They Will Be Held.

County Superintendent G. C. Lowell has announced that the examinations for the rural and out of Fayette county, Pa., for the seven month terms will be held on Saturday, March 31, 1906, and for the eight month terms on Saturday, April 28, 1906. Students under sixteen years of age will not be admitted to the class, unless recommended by the School Board of the district in which the students attend school.

The examinations must begin not later than nine o'clock in the morning. The county superintendent will send uniform lists of questions, under seal, to the first named on the committee, and these lists must not be opened until the examinations begin. The amount of the examination fee shall be $1.00. The manuscripts shall be graded and forwarded to the county superintendent with an RHD delay as possible.

DUNBAR.

Events of the Day in the Busy Fair Race Town.

Dunbar, March 16.—The special meeting of the borough Council to have been held last Monday night, did not materialize owing to there falling to be a quorum present. Monday night of next week has now been set as the time for the holding of the meeting at which time they will further discuss the purchasing of the three-story brick building of D. C. Fritz, located on Woodvale street. There has been in circulation during the past week a petition which sets forth reasons why Council should not purchase the building at a cost of $5,500. The petition has been readily signed by the citizens, who feel that no need water and light and heat at such a price before they pay $5,500 building.

Rev. George S. Bowden of New Martinsville, W. Va., has been at home here for a few days, the guest of his parents.

Miss Ethel Miller of Connelville was calling on friends here yesterday. James Russell was down from Mt. Braddock a few hours Wednesday afternoon.

C. L. Hinchberger was a business visitor in Connelville recently.

The freight and ticket office at this place has received a new piece of furniture in the shape of a large supply case.

S. M. James of Connelville was in Dunbar yesterday.

Mrs. H. L. Smith was a Connelville shopper Wednesday.

Born, Saturday, March 10, to Mr. and Mrs. Keeney Anderson, a baby girl. Mrs. George Wilson will lecture on Tuesday evening next in the M. E. Church on "The Open Switch."

Mrs. William Gaddis of Uniontown was here Wednesday, the guest of her parents.

FEAR CUT IN SALARIES.

P. R. R. Employees Have Foreboding of General Reduction.

Information which was received from Philadelphia, confirmed in part by Pittsburgh officers, has led to the circulation among Pennsylvania railroad employes in Pittsburgh of a well-documented rumor that there is to be a reduction of salaries as general as the ten per cent increase which reached every employe of the company two years ago last fall. The theory among employes, both in the offices and on the road, is that the cut will amount to about as much as the increase of 1903. This will be the next step, it is thought, in the retrenchment which has so far affected only the shops of the company, where hours have been reduced and many laid off.

In spite of last year's big earnings, President A. J. Cassatt is said to be dissatisfied and has ordered heads of departments to reduce expenses during the coming year. It is thought that the reduction of salaries is a necessary step to reduce the cost of the system as a whole. The department heads may either reduce forces or salaries, but there is little doubt in all departments that the employes are soon to feel the pinch of the retrenchment policy, instead of getting the increase which they hopefully looked for in January.

WOMEN'S SHOES AND OXFORDS FOR THE SEASON OF 1906

This is a season of radical change in the style of all manner of apparel and the shoe is no exception to the rule. The woman who wears a 1906 shoe will be noticed, for everything about it differs from those of last season.

Then the shoe is of no small importance in the matter of dress for often you have seen a woman garbed in a faultless manner with one exception "her shoes" and when your eyes fell upon the shoes so out of keeping with the rest of her attire you under rated the stylish costume and faultless hat just because the shoe was not in keeping. So it behooves every woman who has regard for her appearance to look well to her footgear.

Our showing of Spring footwear for women is unexcelled. It includes every novelty that the season of 1906 has produced and this statement covers a whole lot of ground for it is a season of novelties. We have shoes to match any costume you may choose to wear in every desirable style. It necessitates an enormous stock this year when the styles are so varied and so many.

Our strongest argument in favor of your shoe purchases being made here is the fact that our methods of business entirely preclude the possibility of purchasing a shoe of last season design, the quality, of course, we guarantee so you run no risk either as to style or quality being doubtful.

Our shoe business doubled last year just because our shoes were satisfying and offered real economies. We can decrease your shoe expenses no matter what they have been in the past.
